Subject: Pav files/dates - are these correct?

Hi Ayn! Can you check something for me? You'll probably know in five seconds about the mass spectra files; that's the most confusing part to me.

1. All ADQ files that are currently on the website were posted in the original massive file upload that occurred on January 31, right? I haven't seen a single file with "adq" anywhere in the filename or folder in any of the updates we did since January 31. So, I imagine it's safe to go with that date.

2. I'm a little more confused by this other request: it's for a link that we can provide for the Region 3 mass spectra files. Below are just two (if these are even correct--nothing is coming up as actually saying "mass spectra," which is making the search more difficult), but there could be many more. Am I even close, or do these have nothing at all to do with mass spectra? I'll keep looking, too. :)
